The Seattle Center Advisory Commission is comprised of fifteen (15) members, and one (1) Get Engaged Program member appointed by the Mayor and subject to confirmation by the City council. Terms are three years. Attached to this memorandum is the current membership roster of the Seattle Center Advisory Board including these new appointments and reappointments.

The bios for all appointees are as follows:

BILL BLOCK

Current: Project Director, Committee to End Homelessness. The Committee to End Homelessness is the broad coalition of governments, faith communities, non-profits, private sector entities, philanthropic groups and the homeless and formerly homeless convened to implement the Ten Year Plan to End Homelessness in King County.

Previous: Partner, Buck & Gordon LLP. Prior to taking the position as Project Director of the Committee to End Homelessness, I was in the private practice of law concentrating in the area of real estate law including representation of housing authorities, owners, developers, and users in the acquisition, development and sale or leasing of real estate focusing on complex commercial transactions. I also had substantial service as mediator and arbitrator for the American Arbitration Association and by private contract.

JIM TUNE

Jim Tune came to ArtsFund as President & CEO in January 2006, after a thirty-year career as a corporate lawyer. This was a natural move for Jim, due to his long involvement with and enthusiastic commitment to the arts. Mr. Tune has been a deeply engaged member of the ArtsFund board since 1997, having served as the organization's chair, vice chair and secretary. Mr. Tune serves on the United Arts Fund Council under the auspices of the national organization Americans for the Arts, and he has held top board positions at the Seattle Repertory Theatre, including chair and president.

His experience in the arts reaches more broadly through his service as legal counsel to the Kreielsheimer Foundation (which reached its sunset in 2000) where he negotiated and drafted many of its most significant grants to visual arts, music, opera, ballet and theater groups. He continues to serve on the board of the Kreielsheimer Remainder Foundation.

Mr. Tune has served in leadership and fundraising roles with many other civic, educational and human services organizations. From 1997 to 2006, he served as a trustee of United Way of King County including terms as board chair and vice chair. He also chaired that organization's Strategic Planning Committee.

He has served as board member and chair of the Economic Development Council of Seattle & King County (now EnterpriseSeattle) and the Foundation of The Group Health Cooperative of Puget Sound. His other civic leadership included the boards of the Greater Seattle Chamber of Commerce, the Red Cross Leadership Council, University Preparatory Academy and the Board of Visitors of Stanford University Law School, the latter of which he is an alumnus. Mr. Tune serves on the corporate boards of Puget Sound Bank of Bellevue and Keynetics Inc. of Boise, ID.

Mr. Tune's three decades of experience as a highly respected attorney include a wealth of managerial experience. He was a principal in the Corporate practice group and managing partner of the Seattle office of Stoel Rives LLP from 2002-2006. From 1999 to 2001, he was a partner with Dorsey & Whitney LLP. Prior to that, he practiced law with Bogle & Gates P.L.L.C. from 1974 to 1999 and was managing partner of that firm from 1986-1993.

In addition to leading civic organizations and law firms, Mr. Tune was a leader in the U.S. Navy from 1964-69, serving as Lieutenant and as Officer-in-Charge of Swift Boat PCF 24 in Cat Lo, Vietnam during 1966-67.

Mr. Tune's education includes a J.D. and M.A. from Stanford and a B.A. with high distinction from the University of Virginia.

Mr. Tune and his wife, Katherine, reside in Madison Park. They have two adult children, Kate and Jeff, both of whom are residents of Seattle.

REGINA HALL

Regina Hall, former President and CEO of Willis of Seattle, Inc., were responsible for all operational aspects of the company's Seattle office. Having worked for brokerage companies on both coasts and in a number of client relationship, sales and leadership roles, Regina brings to her volunteer positions much practical experience and a deep understanding of the critical role that communication, organization and strategic planning must play in forming and maintaining successful business partnerships.

Prior to joining Willis, Regina was a Managing Director at Marsh USA, Inc, in Seattle and New York, for many years. While in Seattle, she developed and communicated the mission, vision and goals as a member of the Executive Committee for a $70 million/350 person office. Her direct responsibilities included strategic planning, revenue growth and employee and revenue retention.

Regina has a B.A. in International Relations/Political Science from UCLA and has done graduate level course work in finance at Seattle Pacific University, Seattle, WA. Regina is also an alumnus of the Seattle Leadership Tomorrow Program, a Board Member of the Girls Scouts Totem Council and is active in the Washington Women's Foundation.

DONNA MOODIE

Ms. Moodie is the owner and operator of Marjorie's Restaurant on Capitol Hill. Donna graduated in 1984 from Illinois State University with a BA in Liberal Arts. She is currently serves on the Board of Directors for the Capital Hill Housing Foundation and was formerly the Chair of the Central District Forum for Arts and Ideas. Donna states that her work on the Century 21 Committee has increased her enthusiasm for the growth and development of the Center as well as her desire to be of greater service to her community. As a local business owner, parent, and former member of the Century 21 committee Donna brings a wealth of knowledge and unique "local" experience to the Commission.

MARK DEDERER

Mark Dederer rejoined Wells Fargo in June 2010 as Vice President, Wells Fargo Foundation and Manager, Community Affairs. In this capacity, Mark is responsible for the overall strategy and implementation of Wells Fargo philanthropic activities in Washington State. He acts as the Company's primary representative in the community, providing support to critical community needs while maximizing opportunities for employee and Company engagement.

Mark builds on his previous experience with Wells Fargo Community Affairs from 2000-2007 when he held positions with progressive increase in responsibilities. His tenure began with the development of the Community Support Program which motivated and supported the personal giving of team members, and ended with the responsibility of the community relations program in Washington State.

The Honorable Richard Conlin

A Seattle native, Mark began working with community organizations when he was in middle school. He continues a family legacy of civic duty established by his grandfather, Michael Dederer, an early Seattle businessman and passionate community advocate who was one of the chairmen on the committee that brought the 1962 World's Fair to Seattle.

Prior to rejoining Wells Fargo, Mark served as vice president, director of the Safeco Insurance Foundation and developed its national charitable contributions program focused on strengthening cities with the highest needs. He worked closely with a wide variety of nonprofits ranging from the Arts, Environmental issues to Youth & Education. Mark was instrumental in leveraging contributions from business lines within Safeco to increase the company's impact on the quality of life in Washington and other cities around the U.S.

A Seattle resident, Mark serves on the Boards of Directors of Virginia Mason Hospital Board of Governors, YMCA Camping Services and is the Chairman of the Board of Seafair through 2011. Mark also volunteers his time with The Meredith Matthews East Madison YMCA Black achievers fundraising committee, Central Washington University College of Business advisory Board and Washington State University College of Education Advocacy Board. Mark also serves on the Board of Directors for the Association of Corporate Contributions Professionals; an organization comprised of community affairs professionals from Fortune 500 companies.

Mark earned a Bachelor of Science degree in International Business from Central Washington University in 1995. He also studied photography and art at Washington State University from 1982 to 1984.

In his private time, Mark is an avid outdoorsman and enjoys cycling, running and water skiing.

TIEN PENG

Tien Peng brings a unique brand of sustainable expertise to organizations, drawing from his experience in architecture, construction, and manufacturing. He takes a creative, systems approach to sustainability and a proven track record in integrated team management. In his work as a business consultant, he expands the notion of sustainability through operational excellence - optimizing resources, improving efficiency, and reducing waste. Previously, he served as the design and sustainability director for the largest building operation in Pacific Northwest establishing policies and programs while creating communities that are affordable, livable, and sustainable.
